Faculty Review

Presentations by colleagues on a variety of topics.

Advanced Searching, Notification, and Linking Techniques In library online subscriptions by Tom Connole

This workshop explores advanced searching, notification, and linking techniques faculty can use in online library subscription services such as EBSCOHost and ProQuest.

How to be Your Own Self-Advocate in Healthcare by Dr. Linda Mundorff

This presentation will assist the learner to become a self-advocate in healthcare by providing the tools necessary to find good doctors, increase communication skills, and finding the right resources to better health promotion and care.

Integrating Disciplines in the Social Science and Humanities by Marjorie Berman and Niki Nolles

See how history and literature come alive when they are integrated and see interdisciplinary learning in action. Your next learning community or guest appearance will win kudos!

Personal Safety by Eva Graziano

This seminar is an introduction to 5 key personal self-defense concepts and examples of applications for each. Although it is an active, physical class, it is not overly strenuous.

Assessment: Bridging

In order to enhance teaching and provide learners with a variety of assessment strategies, the following workshop topics will be offered during Spring 2005. Faculty members from across disciplines will share their strategies for assessing student learning and give workshop participants an opportunity to explore how these techniques might work in their own classrooms. (Room locations TBD)

Reflective Writing and Journaling by Jack Stanesco

Portfolios by Sharon Lantz

Team and Group Assessment by Marilyn Smith

Rubrics by Paul Grant and Bill Thompson

The Power of Presentations by Sherry Dewald
