

The Benefits of Males Working in Early Childhood Education

- Males provide a variety of gross motor activities to students.
- Children are taught at a young age about appropriate gender roles.
- Students benefit from having positive male role models in their lives. Children who come from a two-parent household will benefit from having a male Early Childhood educator.
- Students benefit from different styles of teaching, discipline, and different interactions male Early Childhood professionals can provide.

This public service flyer was produced by Men in Early Childhood-Colorado
(www.mec-colorado.org)

The mission of Men in Early Childhood-Colorado is to acknowledge the importance and achievements of male educators in the field of Early Childhood education by providing support, advocacy and educational opportunities.

Resources used for the creation of this flyer can be found on our organization website,
www.mec-colorado.org