Get To Know...

You!

About:

Every week we feature a student in this column. This gives you the opportunity to be social, meet your fellow students, and tell us a little about yourself.

So you, or your friends, (or if you want to dare someone), stop by the Student Project Center Room 1551 to fill out a fun questionnaire and get your picture taken to be the student of the week.

Anyone taking classes can do it!

It's very fun and if you would like we will give you the color copy at the end of the week.

This week in Health!

The shape of a new virus, which resemble ancient Greek jars, reminds scientists of the myth of Pandora's box, giving the germs their name -- pandoraviruses. The new record-breaking viruses are visible with a traditional light microscope, being a full micrometer or millionth of a meter in size, or approximately a hundredth the width of a human hair. They also each possess a whopping 2,500 genes.
