

STUDENT RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES REGARDING DISABILITY ACCOMMODATIONS

Each student with a disability at Red Rocks Community College has a right to have:

- the confidentiality of his/her disability information respected in accordance with applicable law
- equal access to academic programs for which he/she is considered a qualified disabled person with regard to education
- an accommodation in a timely manner once it has been properly requested

Each student with a disability at Red Rocks Community College is responsible for:

- his/her own enrollment
- identifying himself/herself as an individual with a disability
- providing appropriate up-to-date documentation
- requesting accommodations in a timely manner
- maintaining academic levels
- maintaining appropriate behavior

For further explanation see “Procedures for Prospective and New Students Requesting Accommodations” or “Procedures for Currently Enrolled Students Requesting Accommodations”.

If a student has questions or problems concerning the appropriateness of an accommodation, he or she must contact Special Services. If no resolution occurs at this stage, the student should consult the current Red Rocks Community College Student Handbook or the Dean of Student Services.
