I. REQUIRED TEXT

Introduction to Sociology: A Collective Approach 5th Edition ISBN: 9780979153891

II. Course Description:

This course examines social institutions and organizations from the macro perspective. This course emphasizes issues of social change, demography, social movements, and conflicts and trends within education, religion, family, political, and economic structures.

III. Course Content and Objectives:

Sociology is the systematic study of the cultural, institutional, and interactional forces that shape the everyday lives of individuals. Historically, sociologists have primarily concerned themselves with “knowledge production” rather than “knowledge application.” In the recent past; however, there has been a shift in emphasis to the application of sociological knowledge in society and the work place.

As more employers have come to recognize the value of a liberal arts education in sociology, there has been a corresponding growth in applied sociology undergraduate and graduate programs. Sociology courses therefore, are geared towards the acquisition of sociological knowledge, the practical application of that knowledge, and the development of a “sociological imagination.”

This course is a continuation of Introduction to Sociology 101. In this course, however, our focus of study will be devoted to “social institutions.” This course examines social institutions from both a micro and macro sociological perspective. The core of this course is devoted to understanding the various ways in which social institutions mediate relations between the structure and society. To that end, this course provides an in-depth study of society’s major institutions (i.e., family, politics, economics, religion, education, media, and the social forces that impact their existence. This course also emphasizes and examines issues of social change, demography, social movements, and conflicts and trends within the social structure.

The major objectives of this course, therefore, are to stimulate your sociological imaginations, acquaint you with economies as systems and their influence on the political, educational, religious, family systems, and to help you gain insight into the nature and operation of societies. In order to accomplish this task, we will examine many of the fundamental concepts, principles, and issues of concern to sociologists.

Course outcomes: Upon completion of this course, you should be able to demonstrate knowledge and/or skill in the following areas:

- List the basic characteristics of the family. Discuss the importance of marriage and kinship to the family.
- Describe the functions the family performs for its members and for society.
- Describe some cross-cultural variations in families.
- Indicate the changes that have occurred in family patterns with increasing industrialization and urbanization.
- Outline the functions and dysfunctions of the nuclear family form.
- Describe the impact of divorce upon the two individuals directly involved, other family members, the community, and society.
- Describe how education has changed with the rise of industrialism in the United States.
- Present the functionalist view of the purposes of education.
- Present a conflict view of education and the influence of schooling on social mobility.
- Explain how the self-fulfilling prophecy operates in schools.
- Discuss the relationship between class, race, and educational achievement; explain which factors affect students' chances of educational success.
- State the sociological definition of religion.
- List topics of interest to a sociologist studying religion as social behavior.
- Compare and contrast the elements of religion with those of functionally equivalent belief systems.
- Compare the views of Marx, Durkheim, and Weber on the relationship between religion and social change.
- Explain Weber's "Protestant ethic" thesis and the current evidence for it.
- Compare the religiosity of the American people with that of other nations and discuss the social consequences of these differences.
- Identify the factors that have led to a fundamentalist revival in the United States.
- Discuss the economic order and the importance of economic activity.
- Explain the idea of division of labor and the consequences of surplus wealth.
- Compare Durkheim's concepts of mechanical and organic solidarity in terms of social cohesion.

V. Final Comments:

Late assignment policy: We will not accept late work. If you miss an assignment, then you have missed an assignment.

RESPECT

of others is expected and essential for creating a positive learning experience. We don't all have to agree on everything, but we do need to express ourselves in a positive manner.

Other Course Policies and Red Rocks Policies:

Academic Integrity Statement / Academic Dishonesty

Admission to the Red Rocks Community College implies that you agree to respect the rights of others and observe moral and civil laws. Interference with the normal processes of education in the classroom or elsewhere on the campus will be regarded as unacceptable conduct, warranting suspension or dismissal. Complete Student Code of Conduct is in the handbook on line and can be found by following the Handbook/Code of Conduct link.

Academic Misconduct: Plagiarizing, cheating, or committing any other form of academic misconduct including, but not limited to, unauthorized collaboration, falsification of information, and/or helping someone else violate reasonable standards for academic behavior. Students who engage in any type of academic dishonesty are subject to both academic consequences as determined by the instructor and to disciplinary action as outlined in the RRCC disciplinary procedures.

Plagiarism is grounds for failing an assignment or course and/or disciplinary action from RRCC. DO NOT PLAGIARIZE. Plagiarism means copying passages directly from the text or any other source, without quotation marks and citations. Summarize or paraphrase the information. If you paraphrase by rearranging the order of a sentence or words, then give credit for the source. No credit will be given for plagiarized papers and may be grounds for failure of the class.

Grade of Incomplete:

Incomplete: An "I" indicates that the course objectives are not yet fulfilled. It is the responsibility of the student to request, if needed, the assignment of an incomplete grade. The instructor's decision to authorize or not authorize an incomplete grade is final. The student must have completed 75% of the class with a C or better, and must complete the rest of the work with the same instructor. Arrangement for the completion of the course must be made with the instructor prior to the assignment of the "I" grade. This agreement must be written on a Contract for Incomplete Grade Form. The instructor may allow up to one full semester for the student to complete missing requirements. "I" grades not changed by the end of the following semester will automatically become failing grades (F). These instructors rarely give incompletes.
