DID YOU KNOW?...

According to the National Afterschool Association, over the past 10 years there has been a focused and well-researched shift for STEM education to be based on hands-on, inquiry-type activities. The afterschool environment is perfect for implementing these types of activities. With a non-traditional structure that allows for small group, multi- age learning opportunities and student-centered curriculum, afterschool programs are a place where process can take the front seat from content.

RRCC SACC offers STEAM projects every day! These projects are engaging, hands-on opportunities that allow the children to explore different concepts regarding science, technology, engineering, art and math. Feel free to stick around and participate in an activity with us someday!

The kids have been having fun creating forts, making fun items and just being creative!

If you would like to help support the creativity of your kids and others creativity, if you have any larger cardboard that you were going to recycle, you can bring it to program for the kids to use!
