“Your Expected Family Contribution (EFC) is an index number used to determine your eligibility for federal student financial aid. This number results from the financial information you provide in your Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA®) form. It's reported to you on your Student Aid Report (SAR).

Your EFC is calculated according to a formula established by law and considers your family's taxed and untaxed income, assets, and benefits (such as Unemployment or Social Security). Schools use the EFC to determine your federal aid eligibility and financial aid award (<https://studentaid.gov/help-center/answers/article/what-is-efc>).”
